That there may be the semblance of a general celebration by all the people of Washington, where Lincoln made most of his famous record, and where he wrote his name on the immortal pages of not only American history, but the annals of the world, Commander A. P. Tasker, the retiring chief of the Department of the Po-tomac, Grand Army of the Republic, has issued an appeal to his comrades and to the patriotic public, asking that the national colors be displayed generally tomorrow.

Musical and Literary Features. The United States Historical Society, as has been its custom since the date of its organization, will hold commemorative Lincoln birthday exercises tomorrow evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, at the McKendree M. E. Church, Massachusetts avenue between 9th and 10th streets. The auditorium will be appropriately decorated with patriotic colors, and, as on former occasions, distinguished men will deliver addresses. In addition to the speaking there will be musical and literary features, and the general public is invited to attend. Two of the addresses at least, those of Dr. Franklin T. Howe, who was attached to the bureau of military justice before and at the time of President Lincoln's assassina-tion, and that of Mr. Osborn Oldroyd, who has a large collection of Lincolniana, will be in the nature of unwritten history of

VERDICT OF SUICIDE.

Result of Inquiry Into London Promoter's Death.

LONDON. February 10 .- An inquest held today to determine the cause of the death of Ernest Schwartsacher, chairman of several important South African companies who was found shot last Tuesday in his residence here, resulted in a verdict of suicide during temporary insanity. The evidence adduced showed that he had been depressed for some months owing to losses due to the slump in Kaffir shares. He had a unique collection of pictures and other works of art, and the possibility of having to sacrifice them preyed upon his mind.

Mr. Schwartsicher consulted his solicitor
the day he was found shot with reference to the payment of many thousands of pounds to stock brokers. His death was a contributory cause to the further depression of Kaffirs on the stock exchange during the week.

HOTEL NO MORE.

Old Barton, Once Welcker's, to Be

Once the principal hotel in Washington, the old Welcker House, lately known as the Barton Hotel, on 15th street between New York avenue and H street, has changed hands and will be done away with to make room for the new office building of W. B. Hibbs & Co.

The property covers an area of 8,250 square feet and the price paid, regarded as extremely reasonable, was approximately $20 per foot. The site has a frontage of seventy-five feet on 15th street and has ample alleys on the south and east sides. The transaction was carried through by H. Rozier Dulany and Frederick May. It is understood that the owner of the property, a sister of Mrs. Henry May of this city, is at her home in Paris, but a deposit has been made and the deal will be closed with all possible speed.

Mr. Hibbs expects to begin building operations in the early spring and will have the tearing down of the old structure begun as soon as the deeds are passed to him. He expects to erect a large office building, modern in every respect and as high as the law will allow. The first floor he will reserve for his own offices.

Estimated Value of the Live Stock of the Country.

Statistics of the whole live stock production and population of the United States have been announced by the Department of Agriculture. This was no cotton-ginning guess either, but a personally conducted census compiled at some expense and more trouble. It will be a surprise to many people to know that in spite of the inroads of the automobile and other causes tending to lessen production, there are over a billion and a half dollars worth of horses in this country, and the total value of all live stock enumerated amounts to $3,655,389,443. The detailed list of classes was as follows:

Steps are being taken by the naval officials to establish uniformity in the small arms and machine guns used by the army and the navy so that the same ammunition used by one branch may be used by the other. Estimates amounting to more than $1,000,000 have been prepared by the navy ordnance officers to carry out that idea. The change in callbres of naval guns hither to has been without regard to what the army was doing and it was only after a constraint. army was doing, and it was only after a joint board was convened that it was realized that it was poor policy to have dif-ferent calibres of small arms in the two services. The navy has been using a rifle of about a quarter of an inch in diameter, while the army rifle was three-tenths of an inch. It is the plan to have the Navy Department buy all the rifles for the use of the navy from the army and to obtain ma-chine guns using the same cartridge from private firms. The sum of $1,100,000 will equip all the vessels now completed with the new arms with necessary equipment and about a year's supply of ammunition.

Naval Search Problem. The many vessels of the Atlantic fleet which recently finished a series of maneuvers near Culebra are now scattered among the ports of the lower West Indies for the purpose of giving the crews a short season of liberty preparatory to engaging in the naval search problem. This will involve interesting experiments in wireless telegraphy by a system of relaying messages from ship to ship. That method of marine communication is expected to have important results as tending to interfere with, if not to entirely destroy, the secrecy which has nith erto been a leading feature of naval strategy. Following the search problem the ves-sels will rendezvous at Guantanamo and engage in target practice. The ranges there afford facilities for small arms practice by 3,000 men a day. Later the vessels will proceed to Pensacola for further target supreme court today decided that in the absence of a state statute granting such power, boards of education in cities of the second class have no right to separate negro children from whites in the public schools. The case that brought forth the decision came from Coffeyville, where "Bud" Cartwright, a negro, demanded that his daughter be admitted to the same school room with white children, although a separate room was provided for the negroes. Mandamus proceedings were brought before the supreme court to compel the board to admit the Cartwright girl. Today's decision does not affect that recently rendered by the same court upholding the act passed by the last legislature, providing for the separation of white and negro children in public schools in cities of the first class. RESCUED FROM A MOB.
